

HISTORY OF HOMOEOPATHY IN INDIA

It doesn't took too long for Homoeopathy to reach India (British India)

SOME UNRECOGNIZED EFFORTS:

- 1810- A German Physician and Geologist came to India with his officials for some geological assignment.
- Set up his base in Calcutta.
- Distributed Homoeopathic medicines to his servants and poor people of the locality free of cost.
- Dr. Mullen of London Missionary Society was also dispensing Homoeopathic medicines free of cost to the needy people of Bhowanipore of Calcutta at that time.

needy people of Bhowanipore of Calcutta at that time.

- Thus initial development of Homoeopathy (in India) started from Bengal.

DR. JOHN MARTIN HONIGBERGER:

- In 1829 a French man Dr. John Martin Honigberger (1795-1869) visited India for the first time, and in 1839 for the second time.
- In 1835, he directly learned homoeopathy from Dr. Hahnemann in Paris.
- He was called in by Maharaja Ranjit Singh of Lahore who was suffering from paralysis of the vocal cords with swelling of the feet.
- Cured Maharaja ("Dulcamara" in wine in low potency)

- Cured Maharaja ("Dulcamara" in wine in low potency)
- The Maharaja was also impressed when his favorite horse was treated for ulcer of the leg
- Dr. Honigberger became the chief physician of the royal court.
- Later on after Maharaja's death Dr. Honigberger shifted to Calcutta.
- In Calcutta, he was known as the "Cholera Doctor".
- Practiced in Calcutta up to 1860.
- Honigberger wrote a famous book named- "Thirty five years in The East, Adventures, Discoveries, Experiments and Historical sketches of Punjab and Kashmir"

DR. SAMUEL BROOKING:

- In 1846 he established a Homoeopathic Hospital at Tanjore which was acceptable to all classes particularly to Brahmins
- He also taught Homoeopathy to several young aspirants.

SIR JOHN HUNTER LITTLER:

- In Nov. 1851, by the earnest endeavour of some dignified persons in Calcutta and under the patronage of the Hon'ble Sir John Hunter Littler, Deputy Governor of Bengal and President of the Council of India, a 'Native Homoeopathic Hospital and Free Dispensary' was founded in Calcutta.

BABU RANJENDRA LAL DUTTA:

- In the middle of 19th century when homoeopathy was gaining popularity gradually, a landlord, Babu Rajendra Lal

gaining popularity gradually, a landlord, Babu Rajendra Lal

BABU RANJENDRA LAL DUTTA:

- In the middle of 19th century when homoeopathy was gaining popularity gradually, a landlord, Babu Rajendra Lal Dutta (1818-89) came forward in support of homoeopathy.
- He played a pivotal role in popularizing homoeopathy in India.
- The first homoeopathic pharmacy was established in Calcutta by the inspiration of Dr. Thiennette Berigny (famous French homoeopath) in 1866.
- Babu Rajendra Lal Dutta is considered as the most important figure in Indian Homoeopathy and he is revered as the 'Father of Indian Homoeopathy'.

DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR/SARKAR:

16th Feb, in 1867, is the memorable day in the history of

DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR/SARKAR:

- 16th Feb, in 1867, is the memorable day in the history of homoeopathy in India.
- On that day Mahendra Lal Sircar (1833-1904), the then great allopathic physician and upholder of Indian science announced publicly about his conviction on homoeopathic system of medicine.
- It was Babu Ranjendra Lal Dutta who convinced Dr. M. L. Sircar to verify the efficacy of Homoeopathic science.
- He had a number of cases to his credit.
- He cured Iswar Chandra Vidyasagar of asthma and also cured gangrene of the foot of Maharani of Shorapur, and greatly impressed Raja Sir Radhakanta Deb Bahadur of Shorapur.

Sircar to verify the efficacy of Homoeopathic science.

- He had a number of cases to his credit.
- He cured Iswar Chandra Vidyasagar of asthma and also cured gangrene of the foot of Maharani of Shorapur, and greatly impressed Raja Sir Radhakanta Deb Bahadur of Shorapur.
- He was the first man to start a journal on homoeopathy- "India Medical Review" and to attend the first Homoeopathic National Congress Conference under the chairmanship of Dr. C. Hering.

DR. BHADURI, DR. MAJUMDAR:

- Dr. Salzar, a great homoeopath from Vienna came to India in 1867. He converted Dr. B. L. Bhaduri (a famous physician) to homoeopathy.

- Dr Bhaduri is still known for his valuable contributions in homoeopathy.
- Dr. B. L. Bhaduri then convinced his son in law Dr. P. C. Majumdar / Majumdar to practice homoeopathy.
- Dr. Majumdar played a significant role in popularizing homoeopathy in India with his practice and his valuable books.

1ST HOMOEOPATHIC COLLEGE IN INDIA:

- Dr. Majumdar along with Dr. Roy, Dr. B. N. Banerjee and Dr. Younan established the first Homoeopathic College in India in the year 1881 under the name of "Calcutta Homoeopathic of "Calcutta Homoeopathic Medical College" (protop

Younan established the first Homoeopathic College in India in the year 1881 under the name of "Calcutta Homoeopathic of "Calcutta Homoeopathic Medical College" (protap chandra Memorial Homoeopathic Hospital & College).

SRI mahesh chandra bhattacharya

He was chemist and pharmacist who made available good quality medicines at very cheap rate. This made Homoeopathic medicines even more popular ^{especially} among the poor people of India.

He also compiled pharmacopoeia in Bengali & English which further raised the spread of Homoeopathy in India.

Rising Quackery :-

The surge in popularity of homoeopathy led to proliferation of quackery and establishment of numerous bogus institutions which consequently resulted in severe defamation of homoeopathy in eyes of public.

Formal Recognition of Government :-

- first state council was formed in Bengal in 1941 under the guidance of late Dr. Sarat ch Ghosh M.D.
- 1944 - All India Institute of Homoeopathy was formed in Delhi by Dr. A.N. Mukherjee, Dr. Diwan Jai chand and others.
- 1948 - Homoeopathic enquiry committee.
- 1952 - Homoeopathic Advisory committee was made by Union Health Minister Rajkumari Amrit kaur.
- 1960 - The Maharashtra Act was passed. It was known as "The Bombay Act" and it laid regulation related to education and practice.
- 1962 - Homoeopathic Pharmacopoeia Committee formed with Dr. B.K. Sarker as chairman.
- 1963 - Bengal Homoeopathic System of Medicine Act was passed.
- 1973 - Homoeopathy Central Council Act was passed. This regulated homoeopathic education and practice. Similarly, Central Council for Research in Indian medicine and Homoeopathy (CCRIM & H) was formed which later became Central Council for Research in Homoeopathy (CCRH).
- 1975 - The homoeopathic pharmacopoeia laboratory (HPL) is an institution responsible for standardizing and producing homoeopathic medicines. It ensures the quality and emphasize of homoeopathic remedies by following guidelines and standards set further Homoeopathic pharmacopoeia of India (HPI).

- 1983 - CCH approved 1st HPI (Diploma